

Introduction of Duties as Posture Watcher

[Stand up]

Mister (Madam) Toastmaster, Fellow Toastmasters, and Guests

My duty as Posture Watcher is to look for distracting body language, such as putting hands in pockets, clasping hands, slouching, etc.

When I see any of these, I will alert the speaker by using the clicker. [Demonstrate]. I will not use the clicker on guests or during the presentation of prepared speeches.

I will count the number of distracting postures, as detected throughout the meeting, and give a report when called upon at the end of the meeting.
